

Peter S. Onuf, Thomas Jefferson Foundation Professor in the Corcoran Department of History, University of Virginia, and Harmsworth Professor of American History at University of Oxford (2008-9), specializes in the history of the early American republic. Educated at Johns Hopkins University, where he received his Ph.D. in 1973, Onuf taught at Columbia University, Worcester Polytechnic Institute, and Southern Methodist University before coming to Virginia in 1990. His recent work on Thomas Jefferson's political thought, culminating in Jefferson's Empire: The Language of American Nationhood (University Press of Virginia, 2000) and The Mind of Thomas Jefferson (2007, also Virginia), grows out of earlier studies on the history of American federalism, foreign policy, and political economy. With his brother, political theorist Nicholas G. Onuf, Onuf published Nations, Markets, and War: Modern History and the American Civil War (2006), the sequel to their collaboration, Federal Union, Modern World (Madison House, 1990), a history of international law and order in the Atlantic states' system during the Age of Revolutions and early nineteenth century. Onuf is also one of the authors, with Edward L. Ayers, of All Over the Map: Rethinking Region and Nation in the United States. (Johns Hopkins University Press, 1996), the editor of Jeffersonian Legacies (1993), co-editor of Sally Hemings and Thomas Jefferson: History, Memory, and Civic Culture (1999) and The Revolution of 1800: Democracy, Race, and the New Republic (2002), all published by Virginia, and co-author (with Leonard Sadosky) of Jeffersonian America (Basil Blackwell's, 2001).

"Federalism, Democracy, and Liberty in the New American Nation" was drafted for a Liberty Fund Conference organized by Jack P. Greene on "The Transmission of the English Libertarian Heritage Overseas, 1600 to 1900." Though it is a broadly synthetic essay, Onuf frequently cites Jefferson's writings, available online at University of Virginia's Jefferson Digital Archive

Themes in this essay will be further developed in Onuf's work-in-progress on "Thomas Jefferson and the Origins of American Democracy," the title of his Inaugural Lecture at Oxford on November 11.
